FILLING HORSES' TEETH.

These Animals May Now Profit by Dentists' Services.

tion of the dentist is the horse. Already quite a number of valuable animals, such as racing and trotting horses, have had their damaged molars attended to, and when they smile display glittering gold teeth. An operation in horse dentistry is interesting to witness. One dentist has attended to over 250 York Press tells how it is done. Let us follow | malting, 57@68c c. i. f. Buffalo. that recently arrived at the doctor's office to be operated upor. She was put in a box stall, and in the passageway outside her door two grooms quickly placed a table with dental instrumentsa dazzling array of nickel-plated tools. The dentist, in a white coat, appeared. He took up one of the instruments. It had an ebony handle and four bars of nickel, working on a ratchet, which crossed one another so as to form a hollow square that grew, by the turning of a "This is a speculum," said the dentist, and he screw, little or big. set it to the proper size. It fitted upon the animal's back teeth and held her mouth wide open, affording a good view of all that lay within. groom took hold of the speculum's handle with one hand and of the mare's tongue with the other, and the dentist examined the dam-"A splinter must come off here," he said, and he took up an instrument two feet long, scissors shaped, and with cutting edges that were sawlike. This was a cutter, and, on being applied to the tooth, it snapped off the splinter as though it had been chalk. Among the silver glitters of the dental instruments on the table an electric battery buzzed. The surgeon fixed to one of its wires a drill, and instantly a burr of steel upon the end of the drill began to revolve with the current's force as fast as a circular saw. He applied the drill to the tooth. With a humming sound it dug its way through the torn enamel, making it in a moment quite regular and smooth. The dentist cleansed the tooth thoroughly with hot air blown from a syringe. Then he took up in a forceps a morsel of dental gold. This malleable metal he pounded tight into the cavity and added more and more to it, molding the gold as it grew, till finally the tooth had regained its proper size and shape. It was then filed smooth and polished to a certain brilliance and the operation was over. It had lasted less than an hour. The groom emoved the speculum, and the mare, who had suffered no pain, whinned a little and took a deep drink of water. Afterward she ate a hearty meal. She had broken the tooth against her manger. Its jagged edge cut her mouth, and she could not eat without pain. The filling and crowning of the teeth of horses are done with aluminum and amalgam as well as with gold. The operation varies in cost from $5 to $125. for to fill a back equine tooth requires sometimes a great deal of gold, since

Influences That Have Led to Their

Harper's Weekly. We learn with satisfaction that the number of enlisted men in the navy has already been in-creased under the recent legislation to about 29,000, and may shortly be expected to reach the statutory aggregate of 31,060. The fact bears witness to the augmented popularity of the navy, which is due, of course, to the prestige acquired in the war with Spain. There is no doubt that the custom of bestowing the names of States upon battleships has also had the effect of facilitating recruitment. It has brought home to inland sections of our country a sense of ownership in such vessels and a feeling of pride in the ease with which recruitment for the navy is now effected is the nationality of the recruits. There was a time, not very long ago, when the majority of the enlisted men in our navy was composed of foreigners. During the first two carrent year, on the other hand, more than five sixths of the recruits were native Americans. It was always certain that an adequate supply of recruits of this kind would be Those who have felt any misgivings on this some have kept their eyes fixed too exclusively on the diminution of our ocean-carrying trade during the last forty-three years. They forget the huge and constantly expanding pro-

FAIR STRENGTH IN WHEAT

OATS FOLLOWS THE LEAD, BOTH GRAINS CLOSING HIGHER.

Corn Is Weak and Lower, but Closes Steady-Hog Products Follow Corn and Close at Declines.

CHICAGO, May 16 .- Bullish crop reports gave strength to the wheat market today and closing prices were near the top, July being up %@%c. Corn was off %@%c, but oats were \@\4c higher. September provisions were from 21/2c to 5c lower.

n wheat at the start, July being unchanged to 1/2 lower at 72%c to 72%c, and the early transactions were at some decline, July selling off to 72%@72%c. Reports of damage to the crop in the Southwest were again in evidence, and with outside markets higher and good buying orders from became strong. Foreign advices were bullish and under these conditions shorts turned active buyers, advancing the price materially, July selling up to 73%c. The selling was scattered and principally by scalpers with profits in sight. July closed with a gain of %@%c at 73%@73%c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 918,000 bu. Primary receipts were 216,000 bu, against 285,600 a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 104 cars, which, with local receipts of 53 cars-two of contract grade-made a total of 157 cars, against 178 last week and 112 a year ago. Corn ruled dull and easy, favorable weather being the main factor. There was rather free selling by receiving houses against country acceptances and the buying was scattered, but mostly by shorts with profits. The strength in wheat was a bull factor late in the day and caused a steady tone at the close, July being %@ ½c lower at 44%@44%c, after selling between 44%c and 45%c. Receipts were 255 cars-23 of contract grade. Trading in oats was rather light, but the market ruled firm the greater part of the medium, 12@15c per lb. Eggs, 14c. day, bullish crop advices being the main stimulating influence. There was a fair demand from brokers, but offerings were light, local traders being disposed to await some definite information regarding the crop prospect. The close was steady with 115 cars. Trading in provisions was dull and prices had a downward tendency after a steady opening. There was some selling by outsiders on the easier corn market and on expectations of increasing hog receipts. The close was easier, with September pork 21/2c lower at $16.621/2, lard off 5c at $8.95 and ribs down 5c at $9.171/2. AT 14 1-3 CENTS A DAY. Figures Upon Which Government Ra tion Tables Are Based.

Washington Star. government dietary experts' figures are already being put to practical test. The Baltimore Association for the Improvement of the Condition of the Poor has used the official data as the basis for a series of ration tables. Less than 14 1-3 cents a day will feed one man, if ideal economy be applied. In other words, he can purchase for $1 enough provisions to last him a week. This poor man's ration affords him each day just what he needs-no more, no less. Here is a sample poor man's ration for one day: Breakfast, corn bread, syrup, coffee; dinner, bread, pork, pea soup; supper, hominy, tea. There is also computed a which will keep two people well nourished at the rate of $1.50 a week, or less than 10% cents per day each. Another provides for a family of three at the rate of $1.90 a week, and still another for a family of four at $2.25 a week. The new navy ration was based upon modern dietary studies. It represents what is even more than sufficient for man at hard work. Here is the basic day's ration, which may be with equivalents: Fresh meat, one and three-quarters pounds; dried fruit, three ounces; beans, three gills; soft bread, one and one-quarter pounds; butter, two ounces; sugar, four ounces; coffee, two ounces; evaporated cream, one ounce. In addition, the sailor now gets a weekly allowance of macaroni, one-half pound; cheese, four ounces; tomatoes, four ounces; vinegar, one-half pint; pickles, one-half pint; molasses, one-half pint; salt, four ounces; pepper, one-fourth ounce; mustard, one-half ounce. That is what Uncle Sam considers to represent three good, square meals for a working man. Here is what he gives a soldier in barracks and For One Day-Fresh beef, one and one-fourth bounds; soft bread, one and one-eighth pounds; beans, two and two-fifths ounces; potatoes, one prunes, one and three-fifths ounces: coffee, one and seven-twenty-fifths ounces; sugar, three and one-fifth ounces; vinegar, eight-twenty-fifths of a gill; salt, eightthirteenths of an ounce; black pepper, one-Either of the latter two is more generous than the "poor man's ration." The three are excellent bases for experiments in domestic economy to be made in the households of the poor.

Too Bashful to Vote.

Ex-Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, tells of a woman who presented herself one day at the registration booth of a town in that State for the purpose of qualifying in order that she might cast her vote upon the school question at the next election "With what political party do you affiliate?" asked the clerk of the unaccustomed applicant, sing the prescribed formula.

The lady blushed and otherwise exhibited some confusion of manner "Is it obligatory that I should answer that question?" she inquired. 'Certainly, madam; the law requires it. "Then." said the woman, "I don't think I care to vote if I must mention the party's name. However, I don't mind saying that he is a can-

The heifer market was also affected by the increased receipts of range cattle, which could be substituted for the native stock at a less price, and values, except for the strictly fancy helfers, have suffered a reduction of right around 25c during the week. The same conditions may be expected to obtain in the near future, and, therefore, shippers cannot be too careful in handling this class of stock. In the steer market the choice fat kinds have ruled nearly steady, although frequently transactions have been conalthough frequently transactions have been considered 10c lower. The receipts to-day were comparatively liberal for this time in the week, but consisted principally of Western and quar-antine stock, for which there is very little re-quest on Saturday. Therefore, the regular buyers did not make an attempt to do any business, and the market was very quiet. Hogs-Receipts, 3,500; shipments, 250. The marketing of hogs this week has been comparatively showing a gain of 7,000 over last week. a little less than 5,000 over the same week a year ago, and 3,000 over the corresponding time two years ago. Thus far this year the receipts are over 13,500 larger than the same time last year, and for the month thus far there is a gain of over 14,600 compared with the same period last year. For the week ending yesterday the leading local packers bought a total of 23,765, against 19,171 the preceding week and 14,878 the same week a year ago. During the same period the shipments were 5,063, against 1,823 the preceding week, and 7,892 the corresponding week a year ago. The market this week has been decidedly buyer's market, and the natural result has been a sharp reduction in values. Prices began to decline on Monday, and, with one exception. concessions had to be made every day until the extreme close of the week, when there was a slight rally. The early part of the week the selling side was handicapped by a very limited de-mand from outside sources, and they were absolutely forced to accede to the demands of packers. At the rearranged values, however, there was an easy outlet for the supplies, and, notwithstanding the increase in receipts, good clearances were made each day. The latter half of the week prices had been reduced to a position that enabled shippers to get orders, and with additional competition the market responded with a slight rally in prices. At the low time in the week values were right around 35c lower than the average at the close of last week, but possibly fully so of this loss was subsequently regained, so that at the close of this week prices are about 25c to 30c lower than at the close of last week. The quality generally has been satisfactory, and the average weight heavier than at this time in former years. The extreme top this week was $6.75 and the lowest top price $6.55. which is also the lowest price thus far this month, and, in fact, since Jan. 5. The receipts to-day were a little larger than a week ago, but barely as large as a year ago. When the market opened the supply in the yards was not large, and buyers, feeling that they had bought their supplies yesterday "worth the money," they were inclined to be more liberal to-day, and with rather brisk competition the market opened with the trading active, and the supply was changing hands readily at unevenly higher prices. In a general way practically all dealers reported sales 5c to 10c higher than yesterday, but no doubt some transactions represented a gain of 15c. It did not take long for shippers to complete their orders, and about this time the receipts were considerably enlarged by late trains, and packers became bearish. Therefore, salesmen had some difficulty in transferring the last arrivals. and were finally forced to concede a part of the early gain in prices to effect a clearance. The situation at the close of the market indicates that shippers should not expect any permanent improvement in prices, because it seems evident

... 6.521/2 70......238 120 receipts of sheep and lambs this week, while no large, indicate an increase of nearly 200 over last week, but a decrease of over 1,600 compared with the same week a year ago, and little change compared with the corresponding week two years ago. Thus far this year the receipts are over 4,000 smaller than the same period last year, and there is a loss of over 1,200 thus far this month. compared with the same period a year ago. Throughout the week the supply in excess of the requirements of local butchers was too small to be attractive to shippers, and, therefore, there was not much opposition from that source. The quality generally was reasonably satisfactory, and, therefore, there has been no occasion for nny material change or improvement in values. Therefore, it may be said that the maket all week has been steady, although at the extreme close of the week occasional sales, possibly on account of an improvement in quality, repre-sented a shade higher prices than had been paid earlier in the week. It is the time of year when some improvement in the marketing should be expected, and especially so far as spring lam are concerned. It is also the time that buye usually force prices of this class of stock to a lower level, and, therefore, shippers should be on the safe side by allowing a wider margin for shipping. The highest sales reported this week were $7 for spring lambs, $6.50 for yearlings, $4.25 for clipped sheep, and $4.50 for wool sheep. The receipts to-day, as usual at the close of the week, didate for a trusteeship and one of the nicest were small, and the supply was taken by local butchers at steady prices compared with yester-day. Spring lambs sold from $5.50 to $7, year-lings at $6, wool sheep at $4.25, and clipped sheep at $3@3.25. Quotations;

Attempt to Restore or Replace the Beauties of Old Types.

An enterprising proprietor of one of those enormous "universal bazaars" in Paris, shall best typify and reflect the civilization of the Third Republic. His astute proposal has drawn attention not only to the importance of his own establishment, but to will leave every hour, as heretofore. what he no doubt considers the secondary question of whether such designs are posible at all, and what the "style Troisieme Republique" may fairly be considered to be. There is, of course, no shadow of doubt that the cafes of Montmartre and the studios of the Quartier Latin have long ago composed their answers to a challenge so eductively held out. They will create you a style as light heartedly as they will destroy a government, and with just as little compunction about the ultimate verities in-

In reality, our enterprising bazaar keeper of Montmartre is not so original as may be imagined. For some years a perfect contagion of eccentricity has rioted across the continent under the name of "l'art nouveau." The year just closing has seen several exhibitions inspired by this same repudiation of everything traditional. In Vienna, in Berlin and in Munich what are called "secession" galleries have been filled with skillful monstrosities. At Turin the same tendency was everywhere observable. Artists have wandered off in debaucheries of meaningless decoration; jewelers have For very many years France was the cen-

But a deathblow was dealt to more than monarchy by the events of 1789. Throughout the eighteenth century French art, fostered by the centralizing influences of the "Grand Monarque," gradually increased in the varied lower of its expression. At the death of Louis XIV two styles, associated with the names of his immediate successors, were logically and beautifully developed, which have been to joy of collectors ever since. They inherital the rich harvest of the sixteenth century, of a renaissance which took its whole departure from the central principle of the rehabilitation of the individual. Temples were forgotten, for houses had to be built. Artists turned from monumental which the exquisite furniture of Louis XV work to lavish a divine ingenuity on the and XVI had been created. production and decoration of objects in which the personal motive was predominant. The chateau cailed into harmonious service all the larger arts; furniture befoundations worked the men who made eighteenth century furniture from France, whose names were Jean Lamour, Caffert Boulle, Charles Cressant, Pasener, Gouthiere, whose elaborators were Watteau, Fragonard, Boucher, Natoire, Van Loo, Hoet. Van Sapendonck. You may see as fine specimens of their work as exist anywhere in the Jones collection at the South Kensington Museum or in the Wallace collection of Hertford House. Everywhere reigns good breeding. Not a trick of fashonable coquetry is lost, or of that "sweet lisorder in the dress, kindling in cloathes a wantonesse," which is as far from gross-ness as it is different from modesty. The artists had an exquisite tact, a happy li-cense, an attractive piquancy in days when convention had a greater influence on life able. and conduct than it ever had before or

A Simple Remedy.

A foreign medical journal is authority for the statement that a tablespoonful of glycerine in hot milk or cream will at once relieve the most violent attack of coughing This is a simple, easily obtainable and harmless remedy, and if it keeps good its comise will prove to be of great value Equally simple and quite as effective is the use of glycerine spray through an atomizer. This is applied directly to the inflamed or irritated surfaces and gives almost instant relief. In attacks of influenza, colds in the head, sore throat and like troubles, glycerine, mixed with three times its bulk of water, boiled and cooled, is an invaluable remedy. A little practice will enable the pa-tient to fill the lungs with the spray, and the soothing and cooling effect is remark-
